Dedication

Clad in an Izod, a pair of baggy khakis, and running shoes, Mr. Michael Dougherty is a unique personality at the Day School. A common sight jogging down country roads surrounding the school, he can be described as a sports fanatic. Not only the coach of the Varsity Girl's Softball team for several years and various basketball teams, including the Ninth Grade Boy's team in 1981 and 1982 and the Varsity Girl's team this past year, Mr. Dougherty is also the co-founder of the renowned, exclusive Lawndale Club and the principal booster of the annual Lawndale Cup Tennis Tournament. His favorite athletic teams include the Phillies, the Eagles, and any other Philadelphia-based team for the simple reason that he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1974 and is a native of Philadelphia. An individual of extraordinary background, he was the director of college placement in an Iranian school from 1976 to 1978 and came to us in 1980, after having worked for two years with a yearbook publishing company in West Germany. Still maintaining his "collegiate air", Mr. Dougherty works closely with all senior classes as both the British Literature instructor and as the college advisor. Having a keen sense of humor and an apparent feeling for student dilemmas and concerns, "DOC" is easy to talk to, and is, not only a counselor, but a friend to every senior, former Day School senior, or senior-to-be. Mr. Dougherty is a delight to learn from, as he shares examples of his prolific vocabulary or gives a light anecdote to emphasize a point being made. He is also admired for his coaching talents and experience. However, it is his helpful advice and encouragement, along with his individuality, that make him the popular figure that he is. Thus, in appreciation for all his work, we, the Prowler Staff, would like to dedicate the 1983-84 yearbook to our special friend, Mr. Michael Dougherty.

Bengals are a curious and noble beast. They probe the halls of academe with insistent and insatiable voracity. On field or court, they crush the callow Cavalier and fell the foul and feckless Fury with an insouciant swipe. And in artistic endeavors of every variety, they set a standard which others struggle to equal. Because of this, the Greensboro Day School, lair of the Bengal, is a dynamic, colorful, and fastpaced world. It is a world made up of students, teachers, athletes, administrators, coaches, secretaries, maintenance personnel, musicians, thespians, photographers, artists, writers, scientists, mathematicians, linguists, and historians. In short, it is a community comprised of interesting people, actively engaged in the pursuit of excellence.

Like all books, this edition of The Prowler is comprised of ink and paper, necessarily inadequate media through which to recreate a world such as the one described above. Nevertheless, the staff hopes that this book, and the words and pictures we have assembled here, will help you to capture at least some of the flavor of the 1983-'84 school year. Whether you are reading this book in June of 1984, or in November of 2014, the events which we chronicle here will seem "long ago, and far, far away." We hope that this edition of The Prowler brings them a little closer to you.

Roger A. Barboza Lépez

A man may be so much of everything that he is nothing of anything.

Samuel Johnson

Do what you can, with what you have, where you are.

Theodore Roosevelt

In music one must think with the heart and feel with the brain.

George Szell

A hungry man is not a free man.

Adlai Stevenson

All men kill the thing they hate, too, unless of course, it kills them first.

James Thurber

To love is to admire with the heart, to admire is to love with the mind.

Théophile Gautier

Where is everybody? (Replying to the question, "What was it the last man on earth said?")

When you have a dream, don't let anything dim it.
Keep hoping, keep trying . . . the sky is the limit.

Anonymous

Yesterday is already a dream and tomorrow is only a vision.
But today well-lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope.

Anonymous

Believing is the beginning of a dream coming true . . .

Life too often presents us with a choice of evils, rather than of goods.

C.C. Colton

Be yourself. Who else is better qualified?

Frank Giblin II

We probably wouldn't worry about what people think of us if we could know how seldom they do.

Olin Miller

The most thoroughly wasted of all days is that on which one has not laughed.

Chamfort

A friend is a present which you give yourself.

R.L. Stevenson

Some people have a large circle of friends, while others have only friends they like.

Sixty years ago I knew everything; now I know nothing;
education is a progressive discovery of our own ignorance.

Will Durant

How high I am, how much I see,
How far I reach, depends on me.

KSB

We dreamers have our ways
of facing rainy days,
and somehow we survive.
We keep the feelings warm,
and protect them from the storm
until our time arrives.
Then one day the sun appears and we come shining through those lonely years.
I made it through the rain.
When friends are hard to find and life seems so unkind and sometimes you feel afraid, just aim beyond the clouds
and rise above the crowds, and start your own parade.
I made it through the rain.

I am the Power!!

Unknown

I am an idea
Conceived in the mind of the universe and interpreted in the minds of the individuals I meet.
Within myself I am constant
Yet I am as everchanging
as the people who interpret me.
I can control my actions
But I cannot control their thoughts
Therefore, I must do what I think right,
And let others —
Think what they will.

Unknown

Every man loves what he is good at.

Thomas Shadwell

We must realize that others exist for us primarily in our own minds,

And what they are is what we interpret them to be.

And in many cases the qualities they possess

Are qualities we give to them.

So when someone does not live up to what we expect them to be,

We should not only question them, But also our expectations.

Unknown

Life comes in the form of opportunities which are easy to recognize once they have been wasted.

Depends on what we are looking for.

"There is something I don't understand. Why is it that down the hills and over the smooth and easy places you have walked by my side; but, here over the tough and difficult places I have walked alone, for I see in those areas there is just one set of footprints?" Christ turned to the man and said, "It is that while your life was easy I walked along your side; but here, where the walking was hard and the paths were difficult, was the time you needed Me most and that is why I carried you."

Staff

Take Us to Your Leader

James Hendrix — Headmaster

Vance Robertson — Asst. Upper School Director

One of the key aspects of a functionally sound school is the staff of administrators. Here at Greensboro Day School, the administrators successfully perform not only the necessary duties but also the humanistic ones. Each administrator manages to be a friend to all students. The students can look to the Greensboro Day School administration for guidance in any situation. It is not common to find so rich a set of qualities in a staff, but this facet of G.D.S., like so many facets, breaks the usual traditions.

Dave Gilbert — Academic Dean

Bill Amidon — Director of Development

John Honiss — Administrative Assistant

Carla Dowler — Asst. Lower School Director

Thomas Van Loon — Lower School Director

Ed Dickinson — Middle School Director

Bob Dobson — Upper School Director

Figuratively Speaking

As the world in which we live becomes more technically oriented, the Math Department strives to meet the rising demands of this technological society by strengthening the curriculum. In the classroom students are offered the opportunity to reinforce previously learned skills, as well as to explore applications of these skills to new situations. The Math Department feels a sense of accomplishment as demonstrated by rising S.A.T. scores.

Believe It . . . . . Or Not

Kay Windham — Department Head

The Science Department of the Day School has used its well-established base as a springboard to launch new academic and extracurricular opportunities for the students. Students are offered the choice to take either conceptual physics or advanced physics. Students in the science courses have a wide range of learning experiences ranging from the dissection of mice to ticker-tape to the distillation of alcohol. A major goal of the Science Department is to foster the imaginative and creative abilities of all students and to show them direct application of skills learned in mathematics.

From this mass of challenging materials and important skills, members of the English Department focus on training students to speak effectively, to read thoughtfully, to write accurately, and to think clearly. We hope that by graduation our students will have caught some of our enthusiasm for the picture of life and play of ideas in great literature.

On Top of the World

James Hendrix

Robert Dobson

One of the major goals of the History Department is to teach people about our past in order to help them understand the present and to help them understand how other cultures function. Its main purpose is to develop in students the ability to handle the written, reading, and intellectual aspects of the social studies disciplines required by colleges.

Greensboro Day School offers its students the opportunity to explore the world of foreign languages. Elementary, intermediate, and advanced courses in French, Spanish, and Latin make up an integral part of the school curriculum. Not only do students receive instruction in the languages themselves, but they also learn much about the rich cultural heritage of the lands associated with these languages. The foreign language faculty is dedicated to the proposition that the study of foreign languages is one of the learning experiences.

The Finer Things in Life

Pat Williams — Department Head

The Fine Arts Department offers students in Kindergarten through grade twelve opportunities to enrich the quality of their lives. In-depth experiences in choral and instrumental music, studio art, photography classes, and drama classes provide an outlet for self-expression, skill building, and group participation. Drama productions give students a chance to work together using all of the arts areas to create meaningful and enjoyable entertainment for the Day School community.

Bills! Tuition! Vans! Gas! Payroll! Supplies! The list is endless! These problems occur daily but are handled so efficiently by the Business Office that most people take them for granted. All the money which comes through the school is channeled to the Business Office including class accounts, gifts, club money, gala auction, and orange drive. When reflecting upon the smooth operation of GDS, we want you to know that we appreciate your efforts in making GDS such a distinctive school.

The students at GDS seldom pause to consider that the multi-purpose room has been cleaned, the boards have been washed, the floors vacuumed, the grass cut, the theatre chairs aligned, etc. We appreciate the efforts of those who work "behind the scenes" to create a more pleasant environment for everyone at GDS.

To whom do you turn for aspirin and band-aids? The lovely secretaries, of course! Keeping the administration in line, answering the phone, and typing who-knows-what (all at the same time), the secretaries are a busy crew. What would the student body, faculty, and administration do without them?

Warning: Computer Bytes

Joyce Currie — Department Head

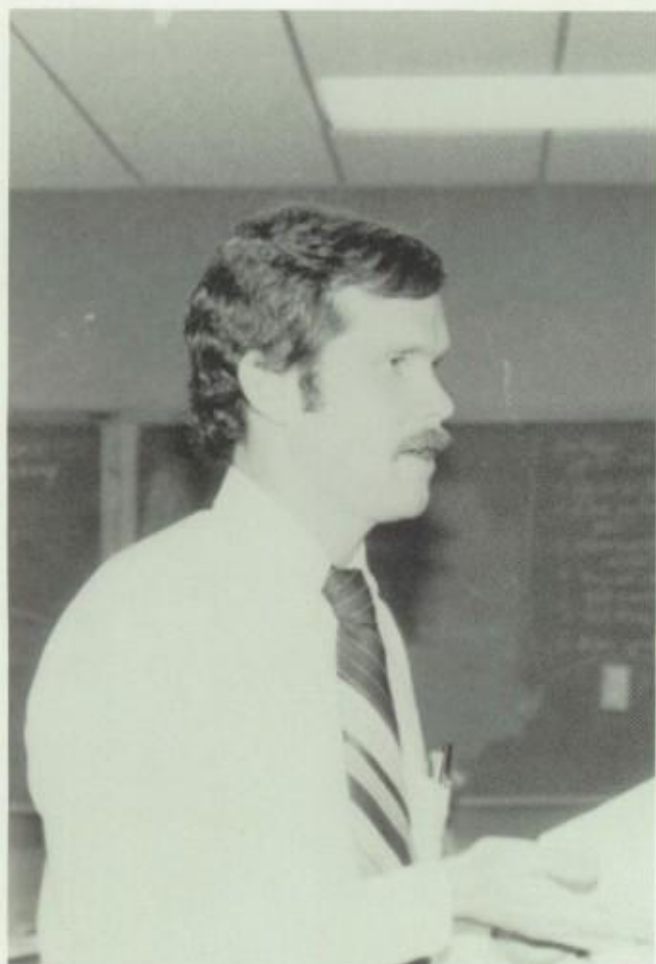

David Gilbert

In its first year at the Day School, the Computer Department, chaired by Joyce Currie, has added another dimension to the Day School. Through a grant from the Parent's Council, the Computer Department purchased 8 Franklin computers, 4 printers, and several Atari computers. All grades of the school have been involved in some form of computer education. In grades K-2, the LOGO language was taught; in grades 3-6, BASIC was taught; in grades 7-8, electives in word processing, LOGO and BASIC were offered. The students in Upper School could choose from an introductory course in BASIC, an advanced course in BASIC, or an A. P. computer course. Another major addition to the curriculum has been the introduction of the use of computers as word processors for students in grades 4 through 12.

After dragging ourselves from bed Monday morning and managing to look suitably decent, we arrive at school only to find that our first period class is P.E. Wonderful. Who is responsible for having us look dishevelled and sweaty for the remainder of the day? The P.E. Department, of course. Then there are those lovely, sunny, hot spring days when the P.E. teacher announces that it is, once again, physical fitness test time. It is always a pleasant (?) experience to run the mile, dripping in sweat, hair flying tangled, cramps searing and jabbing, thinking of that last lap while feeling numbness through to the toes. And at any time of the year we can walk through the Fine Arts Building to hear the shrill screams of the Lower School as they more than enthusiastically jump rope and play ball in the Theater. We wish to express our sincere gratitude to the P.E. Department for these enriching additions to the Day School.

Bookworms

Frances Bradburn

Libby Alsbaugh

To be a librarian at Greensboro Day School requires certain unique qualifications. One very important attribute is the ability to give demerits. The librarians must stand firm in their attempts to discipline the somewhat rowdy behavior of our student body. Yet they also go above and beyond the call of duty by keeping the library organized. Books are kept in their respective places during term paper season, and the magazines are carefully filed away. Informational meetings regarding library resources are held, and students are given all the necessary aid in the finding of source material. For all these invaluable services that the librarians here at the Day School provide, we, as the yearbook staff, salute you.

NO HANDS!

This year's Varsity Soccer Team had its ups and downs, ending with a 7-6 record. Although endowed with a heavily talented and experienced group of seniors, the team suffered a series of unlucky breaks. The team rallied to win several important games and ended on a bright note with a 2-0 victory over Bishop McGuiness.

The Cross Country Team participated in meets at Western Guilford, Forsyth, Boone, Northeast Guilford, Durham Academy, and a few at home. One of their more challenging courses was at Northeast Guilford which consisted of curving, hilly, wooded paths with steep roller-coaster-like dips made slippery and muddy by the pouring rain. The team won all of its home meets. Unlike most of the other courses, the home course was a road course. The team came in second at the district meet at Durham Academy, with Walter Haldeman placing second. Walter also showed his running style at the state meet at Forsyth finishing first, far in front of the other runners. David Maynard came in fifth and Chris Weed, thirteenth. The team feels it owes its success to the determination exhibited by the team members and to the strong leadership of its coach, Charlie Brown.

It was finally the Bengals' year to win the State Volleyball Championship. After completing a tough season with a 15-0 record and earning the Conference title for the second straight year, the girls eagerly anticipated the District Tournament. However, they were disappointed as they fell to Forsyth in the finals. After a week of regrouping, the team traveled to Charlotte, and on Friday, October 28, defeated strong teams from Ravenscroft and Charlotte Country Day. On Saturday morning, the Bengals faced the Furies in a final challenge for the State Championship. After losing a tough first game with a score of 12-15, the Bengal players reflected upon last year's bid for the championship. This loss of the first game, however, created an even greater desire to win among the players. Returning to the court with renewed determination and enthusiasm, the Bengals proved themselves champions by winning the next three games. CONGRATULATIONS, 1983 N.C.I.S.A.A. The Day School is once again proud of the Varsity Tennis team's accomplishments. Sweeping the PACIS conference and District Tournament 9-0, they placed second in the state. The team dedicated their state trophy to Carlton Harris, who died early this year of leukemia. Although strong senior players leaving will be missed next year, we have high hopes and expectations for a good team next year.

Reflections on a Celebration of Life

During one of the practice sessions of the Chicago Fyre Team Tennis last July, Carlton and I were playing mixed doubles against our teammates, Sharon Walsh and Lloyd Bourne. I asked Carlton what side he would rather play, and his immediate reply was "the backhand side because my backhand is my best shot".

That particular day is etched deeply and vividly in my mind's eye, recalling the fun and exuberance Carlton displayed, how Carlton loved his tennis and joy of life.

Last September when I went to Greensboro to visit Carlton and met his very dear mother, father, and canine, Jefferson, we walked around the block that Meadowbrook Terrace belongs to and discussed some of Carlton's plans for the future. We talked about starting a Team Tennis camp in Chicago and having scholarships for those who could not afford to attend. He particularly wanted to continue coaching Blong Ly, a twelve-year old Laotian tennis player who was like a younger brother to him. The other topics we spoke about besides dreams were how much his family, friends, high school, and college, Notre Dame, meant to him.

In the old movie, "It's a Wonderful Life", starring James Stewart and Donna Reed, its theme is a person does make a difference to many people he or she touches along the path of life. Carlton's time on earth was shorter than some, longer than others, but what is important, he made a difference, a positive one. In my heart and the hearts of the ones he touched along the way, we will carry his enthusiasm, inspiration, and love of life every moment of every day.

Thank you, Carlton, for being you. May you be free of pain and have total peace in your new life. Live it to the fullest as you did on earth for you surely were a celebration of life and, by the way, Carlton, give it your best shot and hit one of those winning backhands while you're at it!

Love always,

..... we're bad . . .

The Varsity Boys' Basketball team had its second straight strong year. The year started off rather shaky with a 6-5 record in the first eleven games. Included in this period was a disappointing loss to arch-rival Forsyth Day School, by a score of 50-45 in the finals of the Greensboro Day Invitational Tournament. But continued hustle and work paid off as the Day School reeled off seven wins in their next nine games. Highlighting this stretch was a dramatic 67-66 last-second victory in overtime, defeating South Park, a public school in Winston-Salem. Then a special happening occurred, which all Bengals young and old dream about. The boys ended a long dry spell against Forsyth with a dramatic 63-60 come-from-behind victory. This was the first varsity boys' win over Forsyth in several years. It was also a very rare home loss for Forsyth.

The boys wrapped up their first conference championship in eight years with a win at Westchester. A second place finish in the district earned the team a chance to travel to Charlotte for the State Tournament. The Bengals were ousted after a tough loss to Laurinburg Institute. GDS did earn the distinction of being the only team in the state to defeat eventual champion Forsyth Country Day. A few tough breaks and a hard schedule forced the Bengal boys to finish with a 15-12 record.

Run and Gun

The Varsity Girls' Basketball team has been extremely successful thusfar this season. After having played 17 games, the Bengals remain undefeated in conference and district play with a 14-3 record, and after a decisive victory February 3rd over Salem Academy, are promised a bid in the State Tournament. The girls placed 2nd in a Christmas tournament at Durham Academy as they were surprised by a hot Durham team. This defeat remains their only loss in independent school competition.

Ranked 3rd in the state, the Bengals are a deep and well-balanced team consisting of 15 members — 2 seniors, 7 juniors, 4 sophomores, and 2 freshmen. Under the direction of Coach Michael Dougherty for the first year, the team improves as it learns to play together for maximal results. With only 3 weeks remaining until the District Tournament, the girls work hard to perfect their play. Good luck in the State, girls!

Walk together, talk together, O ye people of the Earth, then and only then shall ye have peace.

American Field Service motto

AFS is people who are going places and meeting people. It is the largest international high school exchange in the world. Through the club sponsored exchanges, individuals gain a new perspective on their own beliefs, traditions, history, and culture. It offers a more profound understanding of the interdependency of all peoples and their problems.

Our chapter has raised money through the book store and Orange Drive to help finance our AFS student's passage. We have also organized AFS weekends with students from neighboring schools.

Interact Club

Interact is a service club sponsored by Rotary International. Interact concerns itself primarily with service projects for the school and the community, as well as the promotion of international understanding. In its second year of existence at GDS, efforts have been made to increase membership and encourage participation in service projects. In this way, the members hope to establish a productive precedent for future generations of the Interact Club to follow. Service projects have included such projects as cleaning the Teen Life Center and painting for the Urban Ministry. Members of the club also bagged oranges for the poor and spent Christmas Day serving free food at Ham's.

JCL

The Junior Classical League has participated in many different activities throughout the years. Events such as the Saturnalia banquet and Latin contests have been the major involvements for the club this year. The students entered in the Latin contests at Salem and Chapel Hill compete in the categories of mythology, grammar, and Roman history. However, the main event at these competitions is the Certamen, or the Latin High I.Q. Bowl. The Certamen requires knowledge and training, as well as quick recall. This year's JCL is promising and full of potential for the competitions.

PEP CLUB

This is the first year that the Day School has really had a Pep Club. Rising from nonexistence to 65 active members, the Pep Club has managed to accomplish a lot this year. It has sponsored two dances (Halloween and Christmas) and has organized two major road trips to support our teams. It has also conducted four pep rallies, the most GDS has had in one year. The club is currently selling Pep Club shirts and cups in order to raise money to buy a bengal costume for the school. Officers of the Pep Club are Darren Hollis, president; Cabell Smith, treasurer; and Kilby Dixon, secretary. Class representatives of the club are George Howard, Paul Johnson, Michael Alspaugh, and Debbie Lee.

Outing Club

If you're good at getting lost, you'd fit right in on an Outing Club trip. But watch out for attacking raccoons and hidden madmen. Such excitements and surprises are typical of Outing Club adventures. Two such expeditions were taken this fall — one to Morrow Mountain State Park and the other to Stone Mountain State Park.

GDS students loaded back packs with tents, cooking stoves and utensils, and sleeping bags for a weekend of hiking and "nature frolicking" (following the Wilderness Policy, of course). The members of the club took care of business, too, as they raised $800 through the Orange Drive and bake sales to pay for 5 Eureka Timberline tents to be used for future outings. As for the remainder of the school year, although the winter months have slowed down the club's activities, plans are being made for the spring, including a possible ski trip to Beech Mountain.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society consists of the leaders of the Greensboro Day School. To be considered for induction, a student must have a grade point average of 90 or above as a junior or 85 or above as a senior; however, scholarship is not the only criterion considered. Members must be respected not only by their peers, but also by their instructors; they must be willing to give their time and service to achieve goals that they feel are worthwhile; they must be able to communicate, supervise, and work well with other students as well as faculty. Throughout the year, the NHS undertakes several projects such as the Bengal Bowl, the Science Bowl, and the Book Fair. It also provides a tutoring service for GDS students.

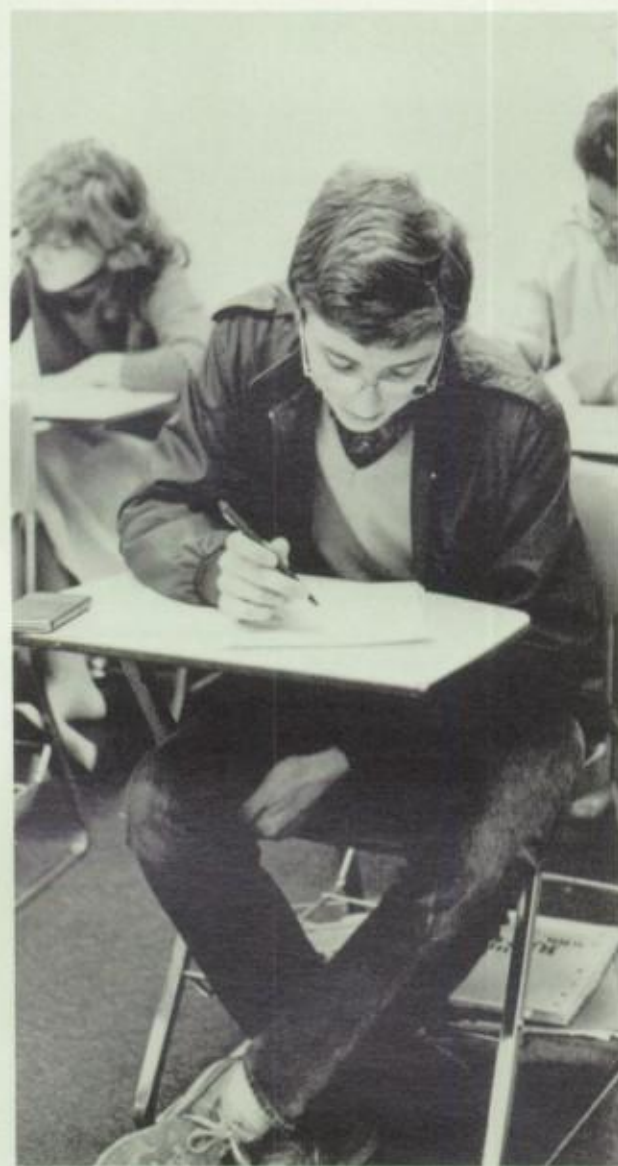

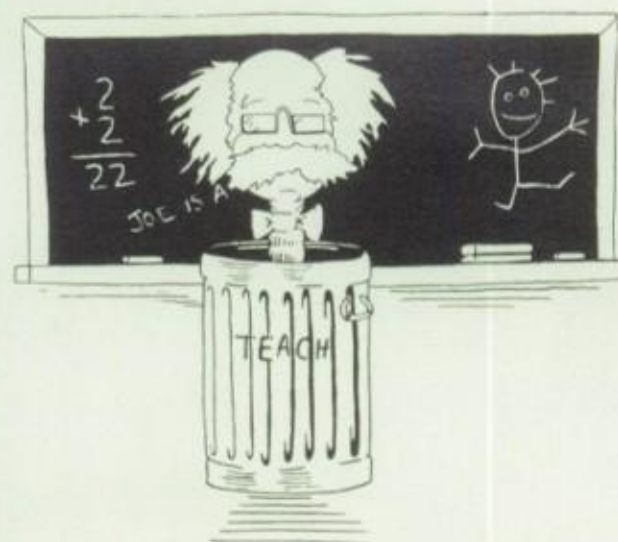

The 1983-1984 Day School NHS group will be the last one at GDS, since GDS has been accepted into the Cum Laude Society. Modeled after Phi Beta Kappa, the Cum Laude Society is a very prestigious organization. The new members will be inducted at the convocation ceremonies of 1984.

Math Club

The Math Club meets weekly to prepare for math competitions in the spring. Interested students participate in algebra, geometry, and comprehensive exams given at Elon, Wingate, and Atlantic Christian. Students also prepare for the National Math Exam given in early spring. Goals of the Math Club include not only developing skills for math competition but also promoting an interest in math and giving students the opportunity to explore topics of interest in more depth than offered in the classroom.

you're breaking out. Michael is not known for subtlety.

Next problem, the hair. Again there are no surprises. I wish I could leave it just one day without washing it. I did once, but that morning the first thing Michael said was, "Your hair looks greasy, Nick. Didn't you wash it this morning?" Actually, I never wash it in the morning through lack of time, but rather in the evening. This often means chaos in the morning after it has been slept on. This morning is one of these. Lucky me.

Back in the bedroom comes the next major problem-what to wear. It seems to be a forgivable sin-to wear the same executive day. Lord, why is everyone else's car you could probably find off, but nowhere near as good as the states that you never wear the same clothes, unless, of course, it's a state where washers are being washed and other people are going to have to wear and pray that no one is likely to. Flash problems are solved! I can face the world with confidence and without worry.

Over my drab, unrecognizable breakfast I look forward to my Drivers Ed. class under the truly amazing Mr. Morrow. A lot of people won't be here today, so he promised us a film. He even said what it might be. So, I consider all the enchanting possibilities for "The Six Deadly Skids," which I'm sure didn't come close to winning an Oscar in whatever year of the 1960's it was made. That is what I get up at 6:30 for - Mr. Morrow's class. That is why I have such a complexion and hair that won't sit and trousers with holes-so I can listen to Mr. Morrow's modern voice and watch his modern movies.

But never fear. When I am headmaster and owner of my own school,

A writer does well to place himself in such conditions that he may experience as many as possible of the vicissitudes which occur to men. He need do nothing very much, but he should do everything a little. I would have him be in turns tinker, tailor, soldier, sailor; I would have him love and lose, go hungry and get drunk . . . All experience, even the most ordinary and insignificant, is grist to his mill. He should not sit around and wait for experience to come to him; he should go in search of it.

W. Somerset Maugham

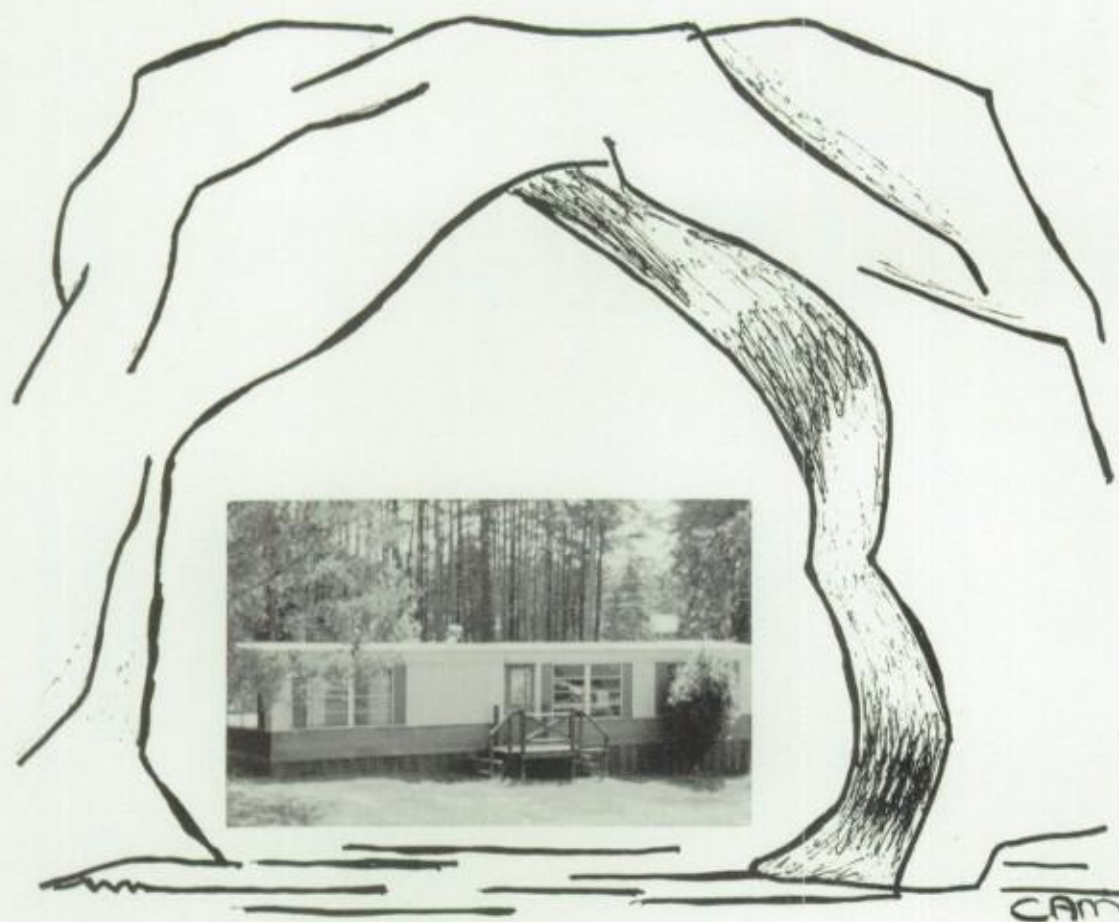

The most important thing is insight; that is, curiosity — to wonder, to mull, and to muse why it is that man does what he does, and if you have that, then I don't think the talent makes much difference . . . To watch people, what they do, without intolerance. Simply to learn why it is they did what they did.

"Do I have the slightest chance of being on the homecoming court? Should I vote for myself? Could I really be chosen queen?" These represent only a few of the thoughts of the girls at GDS when the ballots are passed out during assembly. The homecoming court is composed of four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman chosen by the student body in grades nine through twelve. The senior with the greatest number of votes represents GDS as homecoming queen. Imagine the anticipation at the homecoming game when the moment finally arrives for the announcement of the queen. We congratulate the entire homecoming court and give a special salute to the 1984 queen, Josie Ward.

And the winner is . . . the Las Fiestas! Such was the ultimate decision of the second annual Bengal Bowl, a "High IQ" — type competition sponsored by the National Honor Society. The GDS students showed their concern for academic competition as 72 of them, forming 12 teams, participated in the preliminary rounds held in the Upper School library. Questions were submitted by various teachers and NHS students, and subjects included sciences, languages, literature, and trivia. The final round took place in the theatre with the entire Upper School in attendance. Members of the Seagraves team were Jeff Seagraves, John Preyer, Steve Adamzack, Lou Cunningham, Mike Reynolds, and Debbie Lee. The Las Fiestas' members were Lynn Callicott, Missy Black, Lisa Koury, Joanne Wyrick, Missy Toomes, and Berkeley Harris. Each winner received a free dinner at T.K. Tripp's. Congratulations, GIRLS!

Nine gorgeous males competed this year in the second annual GDS male homecoming court. The guys flaunted "their stuff" and flirted with the crowd as they paraded in the Homecoming Pep Rally. A difficult decision, indeed, was choosing a winner from the group of beauties presented. "Go-Go" George was chosen as this year's queen.

Bummin' It

"Midnight" cruises; sand castle contests; a run up Jockey's Ridge; a roadside picnic; marsh excursions. In reality, these activities are a taste of what the Freshmen Beach Bums experienced on their trip to Manteo last spring. Of course, education was not forgotten as the students visited Kitty Hawk to see the first airplane and traversed a mile-long pier to observe research in oceanography. A visit to the Marine Biology Center provided observations of engrossing dissections of various sea creatures, and it also gave students their first taste of fried squid. All in all, this activity was not only enriching and educational, but it was also enjoyable for all.

Roughin' It

In the spring of 1983, approximately fifty apprehensive juniors infiltrated the Shining Rock Wilderness area of the Pisgah National Forest in western N.C. With pots, pans, ropes, helmets, and toothbrushes dangling precariously from multi-colored backpacks, these fifty urbanites marched into the mountains for a week of camping, hiking, rock climbing, and general outdoor pursuits. Faced with the prospect of a week's regimen of food that could be classified as "sustenance" at best and "garbage" at worst, many of the fearless fifty blanched. But, as the week wore on, such entrees as "Turkey Surprise" magically became more palatable, their questionable flavor enhanced by ten and twelve-mile hikes, brisk dips in chilly mountain streams, and arduous rock climbing encounters. In all, the campers returned from the experience sunburned and tired, feeling closer knit, and with a new and profound appreciation for showers, Pizza Huts, and thick mattresses.

Citrus Central

The sounds of the Solid Orange Dancers directed by Happy Honiss reverberate in the back of our minds as we recall: "C-I-T . . . R-U-S . . . F-R-U-I-T".

The S.O.S. goes out: Sell Oranges, Sell!

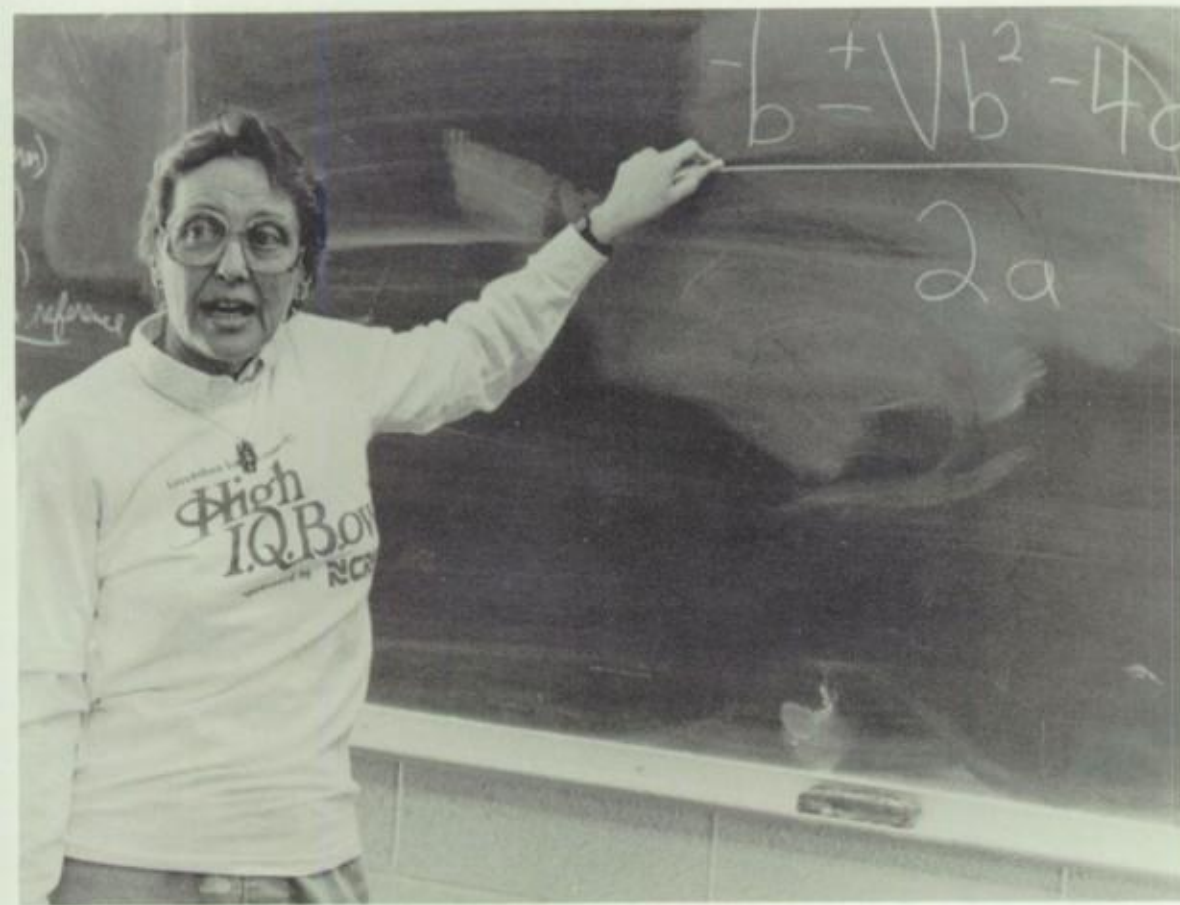

Teachers are attacked! Parents are attacked! Friends are attacked! Citrus mania has overwhelmed Greensboro and reached even the remote regions of Browns Summit and Asheboro.

Although the paperwork continues to be a tedious, monotonous affair, this year much of the work was done by the Citrus Central computer, controlled by Mr. Honiss and Sylvia Diaz. This year the drive was a tremendous success as the goal was met and greatly exceeded all expectations with a final sales total of $28,400.

Director for a Day

It's Greek to me!

As one aspect of the "Communications" theme which the entire Day School Community has been investigating this year, the faculties of the three divisions — Lower, Middle, and Upper — arranged a Teacher Exchange. During the fall, each instructor taught a class as far removed as possible from the age group normally encountered, and often in a very different field. For example, the Director of the Upper School was in a fifth grade class for a day, and the fifth grade teacher became "Director for a day" and taught a psychology class. The Headmaster did the same with a first grade class.

The experience gave all teachers some insight into the problems and rewards of teaching in a part of the school which too frequently is seen as remote and mysterious. As in most situations, the anticipation made for more nervousness than the actual event, which was generally felt to be fun and informative.

To anyone within the Greensboro Day School community, looking through a new volume of the Prowler has always been an enjoyable and nostalgic experience. In the past, on the day of the arrival of the yearbooks, students would rush to the yearbook room to receive their own copy. Scattered throughout the campus, small groups or individuals would be seen flipping through the pages, trying frantically to find their pictures and trading autographs. Giggles is the predominant sound, and periodically, "not-that-picture!" would be heard. With the arrival of another volume, the 1984 Prowler Staff sincerely hopes that the new edition would produce the same effect, and the same scene and atmosphere would be seen and felt again.

The theme chosen for the 1984 Prowler is a simple one. A yearbook is a book which records the memories and the events of an academic year. Thus, the goal is to produce a book that captures the tone, mood, impressions, and occurrences of the school year 1983-1984. To outsiders, it is a mirror reflecting the academic environment at Greensboro Day School. To graduating seniors of the graduating class of 1984, it is a souvenir of their alma mater, one which they would be proud to show to their friends in college. To parents, it is a photo album capturing the various stages of their children's development. And to all, it is an object that would evoke and recall past experiences when one looks at it today or in the year 2084. If the cliché, "a picture is worth a thousand words" is true, than what would be better than to describe the past school year with a thousand pictures.

In reflection, the 1984 Prowler Staff was young and inexperienced. It had many changes and suffered setbacks. It understood the importance of preserving traditions and creating its own unique personality. Most of all, it wanted the opportunity to show its ability and talent, and when given, it had acted accordingly. What the 1984 Prowler Staff lacked in terms of experience, it compensated with dedication. There were days before deadlines when the work was completed and the Staff could have gone home; however it remained until the late hours and meticulously checked every detail.

On behalf of the 1984 Prowler Staff, I would like to thank Mr. Dobson, Dr. Dickinson, Mr. Van Loon, Mr. Honiss, Mr. Earnhardt, Mr. Talley, Mr. Dougherty, Mrs. Hord, Mrs. Troxler, Mrs. Hodges, and the entire Upper School faculty for their assistance and support.

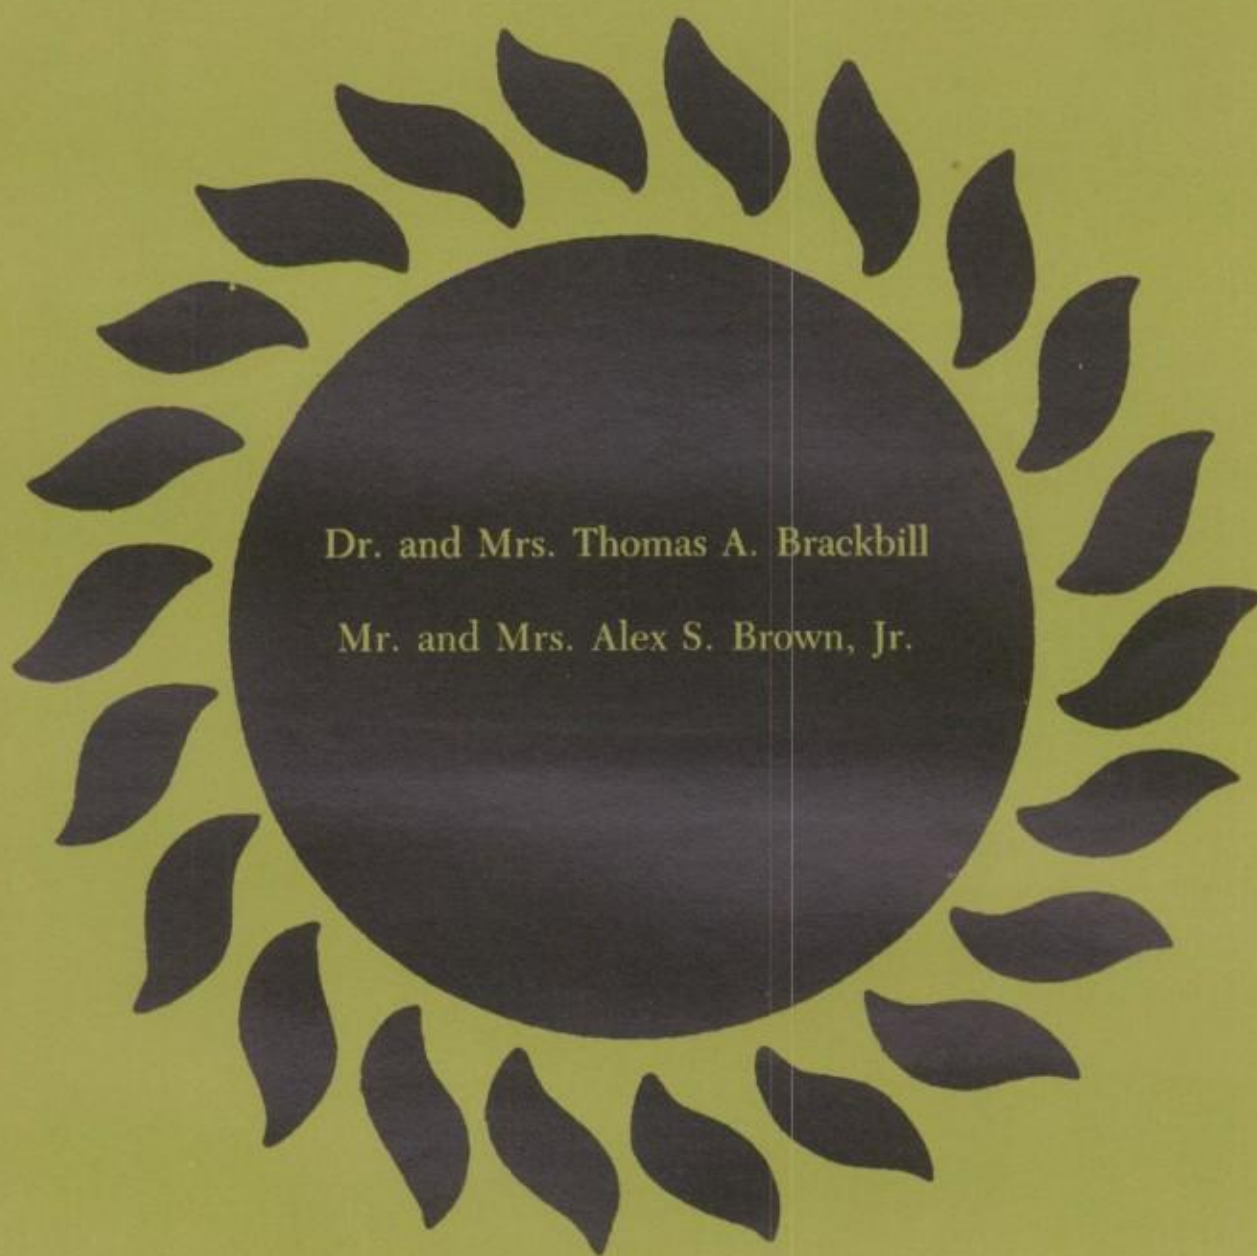

I would also like to thank Mr. Collins, Strawbridge Studio, Mr. Lowe, and Mr. Adams for their guidance; and a very, very special thanks to Mrs. Johnson for her support of the business staff with the delicious biscuits.

The Notable Nine

Latin 8 is quite a treat,
Guys and gals who can't be beat,
Each and every one's unique
Tall and cute, short and sweet.

Renee — clever, beautiful, and smart,
Always willing to do her part.
Ready with answers for a start
She always manages to warm my heart.

David Miller, so alive and bright
In everyone's eyes he's a shining light.
Happy and lovable, in my sight
He's eager with info' that's usually (?) right!

Laura — shy, pretty and very kind,
With loads of knowledge in her mind,
A smile as lovely as it is fine,
Adds to my day a lasting shine.

Steve, the "creative", bright and alert
Clever, imaginative, of valuable worth,
His "versions" are often my day's mirth,
Of his knowledge and dearness there is no dearth.

Eboo, the elf, of infinite pleasure
Her charm is Elisabeth, whom I do treasure
Her knowledge is something of which she's not sure,
But often her answers are good, clever, and pure.

Chris, "the Christopher", on days not so good,
Usually answers as he knows he should,
Bright and knowledgeable whenever he would,
Makes my day pleasant as only he could.

Hinds, the lovely, tall and serene
She adds to my day a mind that is keen
Bright and happy, a smile and a gleam
She arrives each day with the grace of a queen.

Sonya Johnson, my quietest one
Beauty and brains with class and tone.
She works with ease and everyone
Finds her a pleasure, I do, for one.

Last, but not least, there's my girl, Terri Stout
Cute and fun, whenever she's about,
A beautiful lady, smart and with clout,
Filled with fun, she never runs out.

And so, you see, this group is quite fine,
They have no trouble keeping me in line,
Of all our eighth graders, I'm proud they are mine,
This bright, effervescent and lovable NINE.

Thanks Mrs. Rhodes for everything! — We're SENIORS now! Renee Starr, David Miller, Laura Pulliam, Steve Long, Eboo Cole, Chris Poer, Elizabeth Hinds, Sonya
Johnson, and Terri Stout.

It's not enough to put shirts on their backs.

Burlington makes materials that touch everyone's lives. From fabrics used in athletics to cloth used in parachutes.

But we do a lot more than that. We make our communities better places in which to live and grow. By providing more jobs, more opportunities, more financial stability.

As a policy, wherever you find a Burlington plant, you'll find support for your local recreational program, health agencies and educational facilities.

You see, at Burlington, we make more than fine fabrics. We make fine neighbors as well.
